Dennis Mahoney and Frank Sisson--reported:

"The plant started delivering water to the Town about June 15, 1913, and has continued without interruption since that date, although the standpipe was not completed, due to the boilermakers' strike, until late August, requiring the pressure to be kept up by continuous pumping."

"The plant consists of the following items: Fifteen open end...tubular wells were driven near the Mattapoisett River..."

"The pumping plant consists of two...horizontal fuel oil engines.

"A pumping station eighteen by thirty-eight feet, inside, of concrete blocks, with spruce and hard pine roof, covered with gray asbestos shingles, is erected about the pumping plant. The structure is practically fireproof...

"A system of mains was laid...(in the village)

"The plant further consists of a steel standpipe twenty-five feet in diameter, and ninety feet high, having a capacity of 330,000 gallons.

"Fifty-seven hydrants have been installed...

"Four good fire streams are easily available at any point in the congested part of the village.

"After an attempt at an amicable purchase of the land where the Water Tower stands, the Commissioners were forced to condemn and take it, and the title stands safely in the Town's name; but as no one has ever come forward to claim recompense, it is as yet unpaid for."

Among those listed as being paid for working for the Water Department for this year were Edwin F. Perkins and William Hallet Winslow.

The entire water system was financed by a bond issue of $65,000, plus a few thousand dollars appropriated.

Town Clerk was Abner Harlow. Ezra Bridgham was Herring Inspector. In his report we find that four men were paid twenty cents an hour "for watching river."

Charles W. Ellis, Robert E. Achorn and Horace Field were Selectmen.

Highway Surveyor was George A. Austin. During the year work was done on Church Street, Cannon Street, Fairhaven Road, Crystal Spring Road, Ship Street and Mechanic Street. Total expenditures for highways: $6,323,39.

SCHOOLS

Total expenditures for schools: $8,445.80. Total enrolment: 233 in Center School and Pine Island School, 37 in Fairhaven High School, and 7 in New Bedford Industrial School.

Regular Teaching Staff: Jane E. Fenwick, M. Gertrude Lane, Amey C. Dyer, Lucy L. Cooledge, Alice B. Hatch, Elizabeth E. Rogers, Olivia W. Jenney.

Singing was taught by Anna B. Trowbridge.

Manual Training had recently been added with Charles H. Johnson, Jr. as teacher. Charles Bowles was Janitor (today the word is Custodian, but the work is the same).

The Superintendent (Charles F. Prior) urged the taxpayers to employ six teachers instead of five in the Center School. He also stated: "Intelligent appropriation of money for teachers' salaries recognizes market values and does not demand teachers worth seven or eight hundred dollars a year for two or three hundred dollars less."

His report also states: "Through the generosity of Mrs. C. S. Hamlin an individual dental examination of pupils was made last Spring...Nineteen children had their teeth treated free of expense through the generosity of Mrs. Hamlin."

The Board of Health--Josiah Randall and Russell Sherman (Dr. David Cannon died during the year)--reported the following contagious diseases: 6 cases of measles, 1 case of diptheria, and 9 cases of varicella (look it up).

SPECIAL EXHIBITS AT THE MUSEUM

Last winter Alfred Sparrow, a native of Mattapoisett, wrote the Historical Society of the logbook of his grandfather, Capt. Alfred Crosby, also of our town, who commanded the Bark Marcella out of New Bedford on a three year whaling voyage. Dr. Frank Sparrow, Alfred's son, has lent the Historical Society this logbook.

Alfred Sparrow also suggested that his son-in-law, H. Sewall Williams, who comes from a Maine seafaring family, had various interesting collections. He has generously brought down to the Society for the summer a fine addition to the Museum.

There is a group of instruments used in kill-

HOSTESS TO WOMAN'S CLUB MEMBERS

Mrs. Greenwood Hartley, Sr. of Rochester was hostess to a group of thirty Woman's Club members and their husbands for a covered dish supper at her summer home on Bay View Road, Marion. Mrs. Hartley has entertained the club members each summer for many years and members always look forward to this pleasant event at the shore.

Mrs. Ethel Gary, club president, presided at the short business meeting following the supper. She announced that she had received word from Mrs. Charles Dean, first district director, that the fall conference would be

REPORT TO MASSACHUSETTS BY SENATOR LEVERETT SALTONSTALL
THE CAPE COD NATIONAL SEASHORE

"This shore will never be more attractive than it is now....A man may stand there and put all America behind him."

Thoreau described Cape Cod as "the bared and bended arm of Massachusetts; the shoulder at Buzzards Bay; the elbow...at Cape Mallebarre; the wrist at Truro; and the sandy fist at Provincetown." In the mid-19th Century he hiked twice from Eastham to Provincetown on the ocean side of the arm and once along the bay side. As a youngster I followed his 30-mile hike along the Great Outer Beach and hope that those who will come to visit the Cape Cod National Seashore will read his book.

The area encompassed by the Cape Cod National Seashore will include about 40,000 acres. It will include the entire reach of the Great Outer Beach from the narrow bar off Chatham, including Sampson and Pochet Islands in Orleans, the Nauset Marshes in Eastham, across to Great Island in Wellfleet, along the Pamet Valley in Truro to the shifting dunes of the Province Lands in Provincetown. Of this total, some 7,000 acres are presently under the jurisdiction of the National Park Service. In scientific terms the area of Cape Cod is known as a "glacial moraine outwash, flat to rolling, and, in many places pitted by numerous kettles," but for most of us the Cape is an escape from today's hustle and bustle to an unspoiled world of sea and light. A land of quiet harbors, rolling green hills, still ponds hidden amidst sea pine and scrub oak and great marshes whose stillness is shattered when they shelter flocks of migrating birds. But let a storm whip up a strong sea and the Cape can remind us that nature is not always friendly to man. Then the boom of surf can be heard across the width of the Cape and man seems insignificant before these forces which were at work centuries before he first set foot there. Then the great dunes, some a hundred feet in height, roll like great waves. Robert Frost called them:

"...the sea made land
To come at the fisher town
And bury in solid sand
The men she could not drown."

One need only drive along Route 28 on the southern shore of the Cape on a summer day to realize why then-Senator Kennedy, Congressman Keith and I felt that if the entire Cape were not to become an unending series of motels, souvenir shops and parking lots, swift action need be taken to preserve those areas

Cape's close association with the landing of the Pilgrims, we often overlook the other contributions made by Cape Cod in the ages of discovery and colonization.

Thoreau was a passionate admirer of nature. However, we feel that equal in importance to the natural beauties of the Cape are the marks left by those who imposed their will on this beautiful but unfriendly land: The Cape Cod cottage with its unpainted shakes turned to the weather and its garden tucked away from the salt winds and urged from a sandy soil; the great, proud homes of the clipper or whaling captain waiting in quiet dignity; and the simple, more inviting home of the fisherman, such as the house of the oysterman in Truro where Thoreau sought a night's shelter and whose owner had heard the cannonade of the Battle of Bunker Hill across Massachusetts Bay; Marconi's wireless station and the great lighthouse beacons. The legislation which passed Congress in August of 1961 intended to extend to mankind forever the opportunity to enjoy all these as an integral part of the heritage of Cape Cod.

The National Park Service has issued a tentative master plan for development of these resources. The plan envisages the preservation of some areas as they now exist with only the addition of hiking trails to make them accessible. Parking areas will be enlarged at some beaches and the simplest of beach facilities provided, but because of the prox-
